PREAMBLE

The Founders' Statement

This Founders' Statement asserts the founding principles and values of the DF classes and acts as a reference point when considering future activities and directions the classes may take in their ongoing development. It shall always be considered and respected by owners and class officials to ensure those founding values are upheld.

For those involved in the sport of radio sailing, it has always been a serious form of sailboat racing, but not one that was effectively promoted to the wider sailing world. Perhaps seen as 'model' boat racing, but known by those within the sport as one of the most intense and challenging racing disciplines available. Our founders, John Tushingham, Mike Weston and Mark Dicks, identified the need for a low-cost, readily available, restricted class boat featuring good sailing characteristics and designed to make use of modern mass production techniques. The opportunity to realise that ambition arose in 2011 and the boat that resulted, the DragonForce 65 went on to change the public face of radio sailing. The larger DragonFlite 95, developed by John Tushingham and Buzz Coleman appeared a few years later and these two boats gave radio sailing the equipment and opportunity to attract and develop the level of involvement the sport rightly deserves. The DF classes have succeeded in attracting many people to gain their first experience of sailboat racing and the social life that goes with it, as well as opening up a whole new world of racing to experienced sailors.

The DF classes were conceived and designed around the following key principles:

Level Racing

Racing with equal equipment, putting the emphasis solely on a skipper's tuning and tactical ability.

Low Cost Equipment

Inexpensive, good quality equipment available worldwide through specialist distributors committed to excellent product support.

An 'out-of-the-box' sailboat racing experience with a focus on long term product consistency.

Equipment and Rules Clarity

Make the class approachable to all new and experienced sailors alike through publication of easily understandable instruction manuals, online publication of support material and a plain English set of class rules written on a ‘Restricted One-Design’ basis where no changes to the supplied equipment are permitted unless specifically detailed in the rules.

Class Rules Ethos

The Class Rules were conceived and written on the basis that any new owner, who correctly followed the manufacturer’s Rigging Instructions Manual, would have a boat capable of winning any event. Any subsequent changes to these rules must always uphold this ‘ethos’.

Scope for Personalisation

To inject life and colour into a restricted one-design fleet, there is scope, written into the rules, to allow an owner to personalise their boat through permitted decoration, accessory parts or replacement sails, none of which have any performance advantages.

Friendly and Inclusive Community

Class and owners work together to build a culture and community that’s inclusive for all sailing abilities and ambitions. Fresh, new events, racing formats and structures should be explored to help build the global DF community with equal emphasis on low and high level racing. Above all, racing should be fun, inclusive of all ages as well as competitive.

The Founders hope that the DF classes remain true to these values, owners race and maintain their boats within the letter and spirit of the rules, and play an active part in their DF community. The growth of the DF classes will present as yet unforeseen opportunities for the development of radio sailing worldwide. It is hoped that those running the sport, DF classes and the sailors themselves embrace these opportunities and invest them with our core values.
